1.2. Programme Objective

The objective of the Stefan Banach Scholarship Programme is to support the socio-economic growth of developing countries from Europe and Central Asia by way of raising the level of education and professional qualifications of these countries' citizens. It is a joint scholarship initiative of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and the Polish National Agency for Academic Exchange NAWA in the form of Polish development aid.

The Programme offers a scholarship to foreign students, enabling them to complete full-time second-cycle studies in the following fields: engineering and technical sciences, agricultural sciences, exact sciences and life sciences at higher education institutions (HEIs) supervised by the minister competent for higher education and science, within the regulation period of education. Moreover, at public HEIs, the Programme also offers a waiver of tuition fees throughout this period. The financial conditions of studies at non-public HEIs supervised by the minister competent for higher education and science are established by these HEIs. The issue of payment for studies in such cases should be agreed on an individual basis between the Scholarship Beneficiary and the non-public HEI that accepts her or him. The matter of exemptions from tuition fees remains within the competence of the accepting non-public HEI.

The Programme does not provide scholarships for studies offered by HEIs supervised by other ministries.

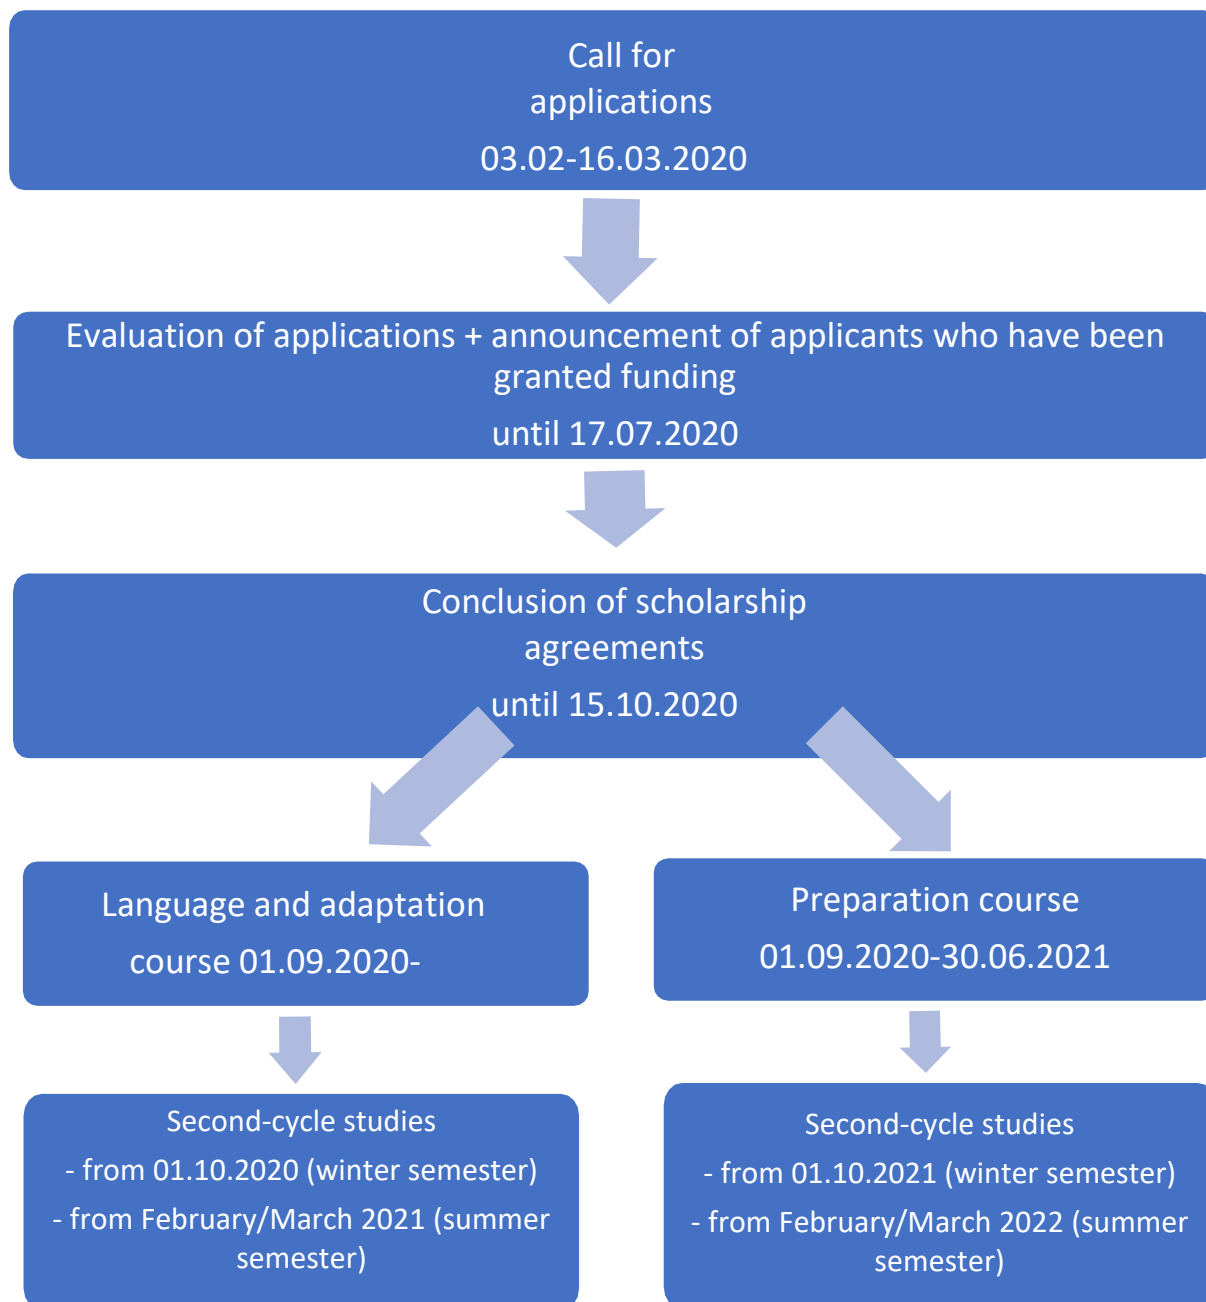

The scholarship offer is addressed to foreigners – primarily citizens of Eastern Partnership countries (Armenia, Azerbaijan, Belarus, Georgia, Moldova and Ukraine) and Central Asian countries (Kazakhstan, Kyrgyzstan, Tajikistan, Turkmenistan, Uzbekistan). The Programme also admits applications for scholarships from citizens of Western Balkan countries: Albania, Bosnia and Herzegovina, Montenegro, Kosovo, North Macedonia and Serbia.

The Programme includes a monthly language and adaptation course or a preparation course on scholarship conditions, preceding studies in Poland. The aim of the courses is to broaden the students' knowledge of the Polish language, history and culture, and in the case of the preparation course – also the knowledge of the subjects related to the course of future studies.

Studies under the Programme may be delivered in Polish or English. Decisions on the admission of candidates are made by the HEIs.

- 2) if they do not meet formal requirements specified in the call for applications for the Programme, including if they do not contain all the required appendices.

The formal evaluation of Applications is carried out by NAWA. Applicants are notified of the formal evaluation results via the Agency's ICT system. In order to be admitted to the content-related evaluation stage, the application must first receive a positive formal evaluation (along with the appendices).

In the event of applications that were not considered, the Applicant may submit an application for re-evaluation, pursuant to Art. 25 par. 2 of ANAWA.

3.2. Content-related evaluation

3.2.1. General information

The content-related evaluation of applications is carried out by an examination committee appointed by the NAWA Director, based on qualification interviews with Applicants. The interviews are conducted based on the description of the planned thesis or Master's thesis as provided in the application (description of the topic and concept of work, research problem and research method) and verify the knowledge of issues in connection with the planned topic.

The examination committee is composed of its chairperson and members – external experts in the fields of science covered by the Programme (specified pursuant to the Regulation of the Minister of Higher Education and Science dated 20 September 2018 on fields of study, scientific disciplines and art disciplines (Journal of Laws of 2018, item 1818)).

Qualification interviews will be held in Warsaw and in other cities or countries, depending on the number of Applicants. The NAWA Director may decide to change the form of the qualification interviews in the case of Applicants for whom it would be excessively difficult or expensive to attend the interview (e.g. a videoconference). Applicants whose applications have been admitted to the content-related evaluation stage will be notified of the time and place of interview via email.

3.2.2. Detailed rules for content-related evaluation

The content-related evaluation of Applicants will be carried out by the examination committee in the form of qualification interviews based on the following criteria:

No.	Description of criterion	Evaluating person	Points
1.	Description of the thesis/Master's thesis and of the planned research	Examination committee	0-10
2.	Knowledge in the area of science associated with the planned topic of thesis/Master's thesis	Examination committee	0-10
In total:			0-20

In order to pass the content-related evaluation, the Applicant must receive a total of at least 10 points, of which at least 5 points each for questions regarding criterion no. 1 – Description of the diploma thesis/Master's thesis and planned research, and criterion no. 2 – Knowledge in the area of science associated with the planned topic of diploma thesis/Master's thesis.

In justified cases, the NAWA Director may allow additional time for content-related evaluation.

3.2.3. Closing of the application process and information on results

The scholarships available under the Programme will be allocated as per the following proportions: 80% of the total to Applicants from priority countries, 20% of the total to Applicants from other countries. Scholarships within these groups will be allocated based on content-related evaluations. If the country-related limits are not met, scholarships will be offered to Applicants with highest content-related evaluation scores, regardless of their country of origin.

The chairperson of the examination committee will make a ranking of Applicants based on the total number of points received for content-related evaluation and on the limit of scholarships available for both groups of countries, and will submit it with recommendations to the Agency Director for approval.

The ranking list will specify:

- 1) applications recommended for scholarships, that is applications that received a positive content-related evaluation and the highest scores;
- 2) Applications not recommended for scholarships:
 - a) applications that received a positive content-related evaluation, but cannot be financed due to exhaustion of funds;
 - b) Applications that received a negative content-related evaluation, that is applications that received less than 10 points in total or less than 5 points each for questions under criterion no. 1 – Description of the diploma thesis/Master’s thesis and of the planned research and under criterion no. 2 – Knowledge in the area of science associated with the planned topic of diploma thesis/Master’s thesis. These applications will be deemed not to have met quality criteria, and the Applicants who have submitted them will not be eligible for financing even if Programme funds have not been exhausted.

The NAWA Director issues the decision on granting/refusal to grant funding to Applicants based on the total number of points received in the content-related evaluation and with regard to the country-related Programme limits.

The NAWA Director may decide not to grant funding to applications recommended for funding. This decision may be motivated especially by the following reasons:

- 1) Applicant’s resignation from Programme participation,
- 2) Applicant’s failure to meet their obligations toward NAWA,
- 3) NAWA receiving information that affects the process of granting funds for the Programme,
- 4) lack of funds,
- 5) other circumstances preventing the Applicant from participating in the Programme.

The decision of the NAWA Director on granting the right to take up and continue studies or another form of education (language and adaptation course, preparation course), on granting the scholarship and on exemption from tuition fees (at public HEIs), as well as on the refusal to grant a scholarship under the Programme will be communicated to the Applicants via the NAWA ICT system. The decision of the NAWA Director on granting the scholarship covers the entire period of duration of the course and studies. The list of Scholarship Beneficiaries will be published on the NAWA webpage in the Public Information Bulletin (Biuletyn Informacji Publicznej).

3.2.4. Acceptance of Applicants by institutions preparing for studies in Poland

Studies within the Programme may be preceded by a language and adaptation course or a preparation course, also under NAWA scholarship. The NAWA Director decides on the Applicant's participation in a given type of course based on their declarations in the application concerning the future language of studies (English or Polish), as well as based on their knowledge of this language and on the recommendation of the examination committee, especially in regards of the Applicant's fluency in Polish.

The purpose of the month-long language and adaptation course is to broaden the students' knowledge of Polish language, history and culture. The course is offered only to Applicants who plan to take up studies in Polish, who do not hold a diploma of completion of first-cycle studies in Poland, but their knowledge of Polish enables them to commence studies in Polish in the academic year 2020/2021 without taking the preparation course first. The course will be organized for groups of at least 10 Applicants.

The purpose of the preparation course, which will last at least one semester, is to improve the students' command of Polish language and culture, and to introduce them to the area of their future fields of study. This course is offered to Applicants who, regardless of the language of planned studies, do not have a command of Polish strong enough to take up studies or participate in the academic and social life in Poland. The preparation course offer is addressed only to those Applicants who have not completed first-cycle studies in Poland.

Applicants who qualify for either type of courses preceding their studies in Poland under the Programme will complete the course at the institution indicated by NAWA. Allocation to individual institutions is determined by the field of planned studies, the planned date of commencement of studies and the availability of places at the institutions.

3.3. Choice of the field of studies and recruitment

1. Applicants are required to read the recruitment rules and schedule of the HEI and major chosen by them. The full list of HEIs, majors, levels and forms of education, as well as of the obtained professional titles, is available in the Pol-on system available at: www.polon.nauka.gov.pl. Information about majors (offered by Polish universities) is available at: www.wyberzstudia.nauka.gov.pl.
2. HEIs may hold additional exams as part of their recruitment process.
3. The Applicants must complete all formal requirements within the time limits set by HEIs, including submission of the NAWA Director decision to the HEI on granting scholarship.

4. An electronic candidate registration system is in place at Polish HEIs. During the course, Applicants who intend to take up studies under the Programme should register in the Internet systems of their HEIs, within the time limits required by them, under the rules applicable to foreigners and according to the terms and conditions of the NAWA Scholarship.
5. Decisions on the admission of candidates are made by the HEIs.
6. Non-public HEIs set the financial conditions of studies.
7. NAWA does not refund registration fees.

3.4. Appeal procedure

1. Upon receiving notification that her or his application has not been considered or that the NAWA Director has issued a decision to refuse funding, the Applicant may request that the Director reconsider the application in the event of formal errors in granting funds.
2. The request that the NAWA Director reconsider the case may cover only reservations related to formal issues in the process of granting funds, and not to the validity of the content evaluation. Submission of a request for reconsideration for any other reason will result in the issuing of a decision stating that the request is inadmissible.
3. Requests for reconsideration of the case must be submitted to the Director within 14 days from receipt of decision or information that the application has not been considered, to the following address:

Narodowa Agencja Wymiany Akademickiej

Such an appeal is lodged via the Director of the Polish National Agency for Academic Exchange NAWA, whose seat is located at ul. Polna 40, 00-635, within 30 days from the date of receipt of this decision.
5. None of the persons who at any stage handled the application, including its evaluation, may participate in processing the request for reconsideration. In processing the requests for reconsideration, the Director may use the assistance of External Experts.
